Anger over blaze at derelict school

Destroyed: the school on fire and above, the burnt-out remains.

ANGRY councillors say a fire which destroyed a disused school building was "an accident waiting to happen" and are demanding to know why their warnings were ignored.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Cllr Anne Gower, a county and borough councillor, said she was "devastated" to see the remains of Castle Hill Middle School after a fierce blaze on Sunday night.

However, the fire came as no surprise to many in the town, including police sector commander Insp Peter Ferrie, who warned in the Weekly News two weeks ago that two school buildings in the town which had not been used for almost a year were "crime magnets" and called for their swift demolition.

Cllr Gower said: "I went down there and the fire service was absolutely brilliant, but it was just terrible to see. I spoke to people who used to go there and they were really sad, because all their memories have gone with it. A lot of residents are quite frightened by this.

"I am really concerned that even though it is a derelict site, people might still try to get in there and be injured. You don't like to say it was an accident waiting to happen, but it was. I have emails dating back to the end of April where I was asking the county council to get something done about it and to provide enhanced security.

"Cllr Tim Marks has also been pressing for these buildings to be demolished and we had the full support of the police and the fire service.

"I think it is appalling that this has happened and that our warnings were just ignored. We have had the spate of arson attacks on the Clements estate and when there was the previous fire at Castle Hill, a homeless person was actually sleeping rough in there. The fire service has to make sure that the building is empty, and they are putting their lives at risk to do so.

"I know we had to get the Secretary of State to sign it off, but I think we had a very strong case for saying there were exceptional circumstances. I was amazed to discover that even though they have consent now, it cannot be demolished as the utilities are still connected.

"It just beggars belief and I am not at all happy about this. I have sent a detailed email to (county council) chief executive Deborah Cadman about this. It is appalling the way this has been dealt with and we have got to get it right for the other buildings.

"These are not the sort of headlines we wanted for Haverhill over the Jubilee weekend, with so many good things happening in the town, but a minority of people have to go and spoil it."

A Suffolk County Council spokesman confirmed that the gas and electricity supplies to the building were still connected. They had been due to be disconnected next Monday, but efforts were being made to get this brought forward following the fire.

"It was not done when the school closed because at that time there was still the question of whether it could be taken over for community use by another organisation. It took until about Christmas to decide whether there would be a viable alternative use and then we had to make the application to demolish it. It was happening at the pace that would normally happen; these things do take time.

"We have got demolition contractors at the site and they are looking to collapse the building's walls into themselves, because they are unstable. We are relieved that no-one was in the building at the time, but we don't want any accidents now, so we are hoping to achieve this in a relatively short time.

"We are looking at putting in 24-hour security measures because of the state of the building and we will also be stepping up security at the two other empty school sites in the town."

Insp Ferrie said: "The fire is being investigated as a potential arson. This devastating fire could have been avoided if the school had been demolished more quickly.

"We are appealing for anyone in the local area around the building who has had a wheelie bin stolen to get in touch with us by calling 101."

Skyline 'filled with flames' – resident

MORE than 50 firefighters rushed to Castle Hill Middle School shortly before 10pm on Saturday and fought the blaze for about three hours.

They were still at the site in School Lane the following morning targeting the remaining hotspots.

Residents reported seeing flames and plumes of smoke pouring out of the school. Many left their homes to watch and others came to survey the damage the following day.

Peter Freestone, 82, who lives in the same street, said he heard a popping sound at about 9.50pm and assumed it was a firework display staged as part of the Jubilee celebrations.

But the retired builder then caught sight of the flames from his home. He said: "I thought it looked similar to the pictures you see from the Second World War of London burning. The skyline was just flames. I was filled with awe."

Quinn Cox, assistant headmaster of the school which closed last year as part of Suffolk's move from a three-tier to a two-tier education system, pointed out where his office used to be in the wreckage.

He said: "It's bizarre because it's just a building but I feel sad for the town and I feel personally incredibly sad because it had life once and for it to have been treated and finished in this way feels wrong."

Firefighter of 21 years, Paul Goodman, station commander based in Bury St

Edmunds, said they had had no chance of saving the building. He explained: "It was gone before we got going. The fire had taken hold of 100 per cent of the building within 15 or 20 minutes."

Nobody is believed to have been injured during the blaze.

Neighbours warned as asbestos removed from wrecked building

ASBESTOS was being cleared from the site – and people living nearby are warned not to touch any debris they find.

Specialist contractors were this week removing asbestos from the remains of the building and near neighbours are being told not to touch any debris which lands in their gardens, but to contact the fire service to have it removed.

Suffolk's assistant chief fire officer Phil Embury said: "There was a small amount of low-grade asbestos in the building. As a result of the fire some of this has been spread across the school field. Specialist contractors are on site carrying out an appropriate clear-up operation.

"Although unlikely, if residents are concerned about any debris that has appeared in their garden as a result of the fire they should not touch it and phone (01473) 433444 to arrange for it to be removed.

"I would urge members of the public to stay away from the site – it is unsafe and anyone entering the site is putting themselves at risk.

"If anyone sees anything suspicious at the Castle Hill site or any other site in the area they should contact the police immediately."

The Castle Hill building as well as the former Chalkstone Middle School site on the other side of the town have both been disused since last July, when the town moved from a three-tier to a two-tier school system.

Fire crews called to scene a second time

FIREFIGHTERS returned to the scene on Tuesday night when a second fire broke out in the roof.

Two crews from Haverhill attended the site in School Lane at about 7pm and used a ladder to put out the fire within less than an hour.

A fire service spokesman said it was believed that the small fire in the roof of the sports hall could have been an area which was still smouldering from the main fire on Sunday night and had reignited.

JO DEEKS rounds up Jubilee events in Haverhill

Party time for Queen and country

Picnic in the park to honour Her Majesty

TWO mayors went along to enjoy a Jubilee picnic in the park on Saturday.

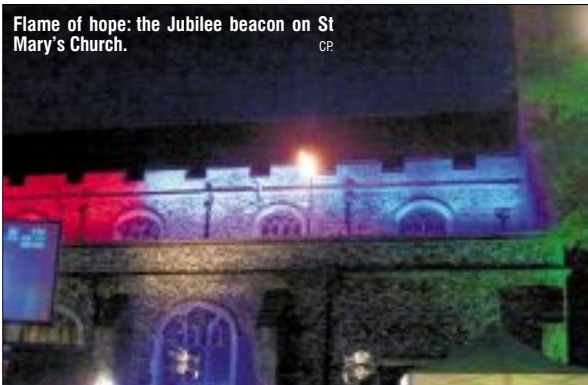

Elaine McManus, former Haverhill mayor and now chairman of the Haverhill Town Twinning Association, welcomed Mayor of St Edmundsbury Cllr Tim Marks and new town mayor Cllr Pat Hanlon to the event.

The association's Jubilee celebration picnic was held at the East Town Park. Despite the cool and cloudy weather, more than 40 people went along to join in the festivities.

The association will plant three trees at East Town Park (one for Haverhill, one for German twin town Ehringshausen and one for French twin town Pont Saint Esprit) in celebration of the Queen's Diamond Jubilee at a more convenient time of the year.

A group from the Haverhill Association was due to travel to Ehringshausen yesterday for a five-day visit.

JUBILEE celebrations in Haverhill were a big success despite the weather, with thousands turning out to enjoy events in the town.

The fun started on Friday with 420 people enjoying two sell-out shows of There'll Always Be an England at Haverhill Arts Centre, a music and nostalgia performance from the last 60 years with Neil Sands.

On Saturday former town MP Richard Spring, now Baron Risby of Haverhill, returned to the town to re-name the square in Ehringshausen Way as Jubilee Plaza.

On the Market Square, hundreds stopped to watch a massed choir of 130 students from local schools singing music from around the Commonwealth, including the specially created Jubilee song Sing.

Pupils from Castle Manor, Westfield and St Felix Schools in Haverhill, as well as Wickhambrook and Barnardiston, combined to make up the choir, followed by a showcase performance of music from young singers and groups within the schools.

A Jubilee jumble sale at Haverhill Arts Centre on Saturday raised more than £700 to be shared by St Nicholas Hospice and the Moonwalk breast cancer charity.

On Saturday night, thousands turned up to a Jubilee tribute night on the Market Square, with Queen and Beatles tribute bands, followed by the winners of the J Factor competition, organised earlier in the year in association with the Weekly News.

On Sunday, 120 people enjoyed watching the Jubilee regatta and a Big Lunch indoor street party at the Arts Centre. The weekend's events came to a close with more than 100 people attending a Jubilee service conducted by Rev Ian Finn with contributions from other Haverhill Churches, followed by the mayor Pat Hanlon lighting a Jubilee beacon on St Mary's Church.

Residents unite for street party

RESIDENTS of Broad Street got together for a street party – and all moved their cars so trestle tables could be put up.

At the end of the road, three barbecues were set up and music was piped into the street. An impromptu guitar session took place with Chris James from number 10 entertaining the packed street.

He played the Diamond Jubilee song, Sing, and a group of children joined in from crib sheets. A painting competition and a game of pass the parcel took place for the young ones.

Street resident Iain Ross said: "What was great was the way that the children were able to play and eat in the street in safety."

"While many of the children had no idea what it was all about, I know from experience that most of them will connect to the event in many years to come. It was also great to see how people were able to pass from table to table, not only eating their own food but sampling every other table's goods. In all this was a great occasion and truly went back to the get-togetherness of the war days, a great effort from all concerned."

Youngest councillor put up for top award

BY ADAM LUKE

Email: editorial @haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A TEENAGER who is the youngest ever parish councillor in his village has been nominated for the Cambridgeshire Young People of the Year Awards.

Keiran Wakley, of The Grove, Linton, also became an ambassador for the Prince's Trust within the past 12 months, raising thousands of pounds for good causes – and all at the age of 18.

Early last year, Keiran moved back to Britain after six years living with his family in Spain, finding it difficult to adapt to a new area with no friends.

But in May, the 18-year-old joined a 12-week course set up by the Prince's Trust for 16- to 25-year-olds who are out of work, and now represents the charity in talking to businesses about how the trust can help youngsters, as well as securing funding and support. He has even visited Parliament to discuss young people's views with MPs.

His charity work has included a sponsored walk which raised £700 for Scope's sensory garden at Meldreth Manor School, an eight-day planting and groundwork project in the garden, and a number of placements at Symonds House old people's home in Linton.

Jamie Jackson, team leader of the trust at Cambridge Regional College, nominated Keiran for a YOPEY for being "hard-working, conscientious and empathising with people within the community".

Jamie said: "Initially he struggled because of the culture change and he had low confidence, but he matured and developed and built up his confidence.

"He became a reliable team leader and stood out because of his dedication. He inspired confidence in the rest of the team to do well over the 12-week course."

Keiran, who has recently completed his GCSEs at Long Road Sixth Form College in Cambridge after changing over to the British education system, said he was particularly proud of the work in Meldreth.

He said: "Everyone was grateful for what we had achieved. It was nice to feel that we were helping the children and giving something back to the community."

And of his role on Linton Parish Council he added: "It's fantastic and I love it. I can be a voice for young people in the community."

This year's YOPEY is open to young people aged 10 to 25, with the winner receiving £800. Other prizes will be provided from a pot of £2,000 put up by sponsors, including the police and communications experts Ferrier Pearce.

To nominate, visit www.yopey.org or write to: YOPEY, PO Box 236, Newmarket, CB8 1DP.

Man admits breaching restraining order by banging on door at 6am

A MAN who banged on the front door of his ex-partner's house at 6am while she was sleeping inside with their two young children has appeared in court for breaching a restraining order.

Lawrence Marsh, 40, appeared at Bury St Edmunds Magistrates' Court where he admitted two counts of breaching the order – imposed in July 2010 – by verbally abusing Amanda Procto in Haverhill on Monday, May 28. One incident took place at her home in Vetch Walk, the other at the town's Recreation Ground.

Ian Devine, prosecuting, said the couple had been in a relationship which ended two years ago and the restraining order was made to prevent Marsh, of Withersfield Road, Haverhill, from contacting Miss Procto directly or indirectly.

On May 28 Miss Procto and her children aged 7 and 3 were in bed when Marsh arrived in a drunken state and began banging on the door and shouting abuse. Later the same day, she was walking through the Recreation Ground when she saw Marsh drinking alcohol from a can. Again he was verbally abusive and made threats to her.

Lyndon Davies, for Marsh, said his client was struggling with a drink problem, but this was the first time that he had breached the order. He had continued to have access to his children and wanted to be a good father to them.

District Judge Celia Dawson said she was concerned that the children had been present when he went to the house. She adjourned the case until June 28 for a pre-sentence report to be prepared, with all options open, but particularly looking at a possible community sentence with a probation requirement.

Marsh was released on bail, with a condition that he only has contact with Miss Procto to collect and return the children.

Scooter theft leaves Dylan heartbroken

SCHOOLBOY Dylan Easton was left heartbroken when he discovered his prized scooter had been stolen from the bicycle shed outside his primary school.

Dylan, 6, had pooled his Christmas and birthday present money to buy the unusual £120 scooter and had only had it since January.

His mum, Michelle Hayward, who has two other teenage children and a baby boy, said Dylan always rode his scooter from the family home in Ickleton Place, Haverhill, because it is quite a long walk to get to Place Farm Primary School in Camps Road.

Mrs Hayward said: "He put it in the bicycle shed in the morning and when he came out in the afternoon it was not there any more.

"You cannot lock up a scooter and we thought it would be safe because of where it was on the site.

"We have put up posters and all his friends are looking out for it in case they see anyone riding it. It is bright orange with white footplates and BMX stickers all over it. It is the only one like it in Haverhill. So many people have seen it and said what a good scooter it is.

"It was the one he wanted and he put all his Christmas and birthday money together to get it. His father has to work overtime to get things like this; other extras like school trips are out of the question.

"He was so upset he just burst into tears. I thought it would be covered by the school's insurance, but I don't think it is.

"They have CCTV in the car park, but there is nothing where the children actually come out of school, so I think they should put a camera there."

The theft has been reported to Haverhill police. If anyone has information about the scooter, they should phone 101.

Still hope in Portas bid?

HAVERHILL may have failed in its bid to get some help from retail expert Mary Portas but it is still hoping to implement some of the measures put forward in its bid.

Haverhill was one of more than 350 towns bidding for just 12 places to receive a share of £100,000 in Government funding and tips to help revitalise their town centres.

Town clerk Will Austin said councillors were very disappointed that their bid had not been successful, especially as it included a video produced by free-runners in the town, which was aimed at making it stand out.

Mr Austin said: "We are determined that the work we have put into the bid should continue. We hope to pursue ideas for regenerating the town centre, such as start-up businesses using market stalls and empty shops.

"We also want to brighten up the town centre, particularly the areas from the car parks. We will also be considering whether to make a submission for the second round of bids later this month and trying to get some information about why we were unsuccessful."

SARS marks 40 years of saving lives

A MEDICAL charity is celebrating saving lives for 40 years in Suffolk and beyond.

Suffolk Accident Rescue Service (SARS) clinicians have been giving up their time to support the ambulance service at the scene of emergencies since 1972.

Dr Jeremy Mauger, chairman of the charity, which receives no Government funding, said: "The work of SARS is as vital today as it was 40 years ago. In fact with the way healthcare has improved and developed over the years it's probably more so. I'm delighted that the organisation is now working with volunteer critical care paramedics who will bring additional skills and widen our network to allow us to continue to cover Suffolk and neighbouring areas.

"The treatment our clinicians can give a patient at the scene, alongside our ambulance service colleagues, can make all the difference to their chances of survival."

Dr Pam Chrispin, the East of England Ambulance NHS Trust's medical director, said: "SARS provides a fantastic service to the people of Suffolk and beyond and I feel very privileged to have served as a volunteer with them myself since 2006.

"The ambulance service is proud to have worked with such an excellent partner since 1972 and we are grateful for the ongoing commitment to saving lives in the local community.

"All SARS volunteers bring a level of expertise and care to patients that complements and supports the ambulance service."

Torch Book completes schools circuit

A TORCH book which has been travelling around primary schools since February so pupils could add their own chapter has reached its final destination.

The final handover took place at St Felix RC Primary School in Haverhill, where the whole story was presented to author James Campbell. He was delighted to find that a very large slab of chocolate was provided to keep him going during the editing process.

Jenny Goodall at St Felix said: "The whole story ended up with Bumpy Monkey and the gang in a very special race. So we can look forward now to the finished book and the pyjama party in July. Kirsty and Daniel handed over the Torch Book box for the two classes. We also got to meet with the artist and author Rebecca Elliott and worked with her to make Torch Book illustrations – we really enjoyed it and we got to see how she worked. Angela had her own cartoon drawn by Rebecca and Angelica and Trinity got to look after some of her friends."

The project aims to inspire children's imagination and includes work by pupils at St Felix, Coupals, Place Farm, Clements, New Cangle, Burton End, Thurlow and Wickhambrook primary schools.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Tim Law feels that it's all about service. "Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole."

Cloudy2Clear service the Cambridge, Ely, Saffron Walden, Haverhill, Royston & Newmarket areas and Tim is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated." So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Tim a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Well done on jumble sale

Sir, may I, through your letters page, say a big congratulations to the people who organised the charity Jubilee jumble sale at the Arts Centre.

It was a great event, with a great atmosphere, and many bargains to be had.

I myself managed to get a load of games, puzzles and books for students at the special needs school I work for, plus clothes for me – and a breadmaker.

I hope this can become a monthly event to raise money for charities. Well done to everyone involved. Keep up the good work!

Puzzles will go to a good home

Sir, just recently I noticed two carrier bags filled with jigsaw puzzles in the wheelie bin enclosure at the top of Jay Close; they had obviously been left there for anyone to take since they weren't near to the wheelie bins themselves.

I would just like to let the person who left them there know that the jigsaw puzzles will be going to a good home! I took them home and as soon as I get time will take them down to the local library. I take my unwanted puzzles to the library or to the U3A meeting (last Tuesday in every month at the Arts Centre) so that they can give enjoyment to other people. Jigsaws are quite expensive to buy so I never throw them away.

Perhaps it will come as a surprise to some people to know that both the U3A and the library would be pleased to accept unwanted puzzles.

FIVE friends who all grew up in Haverhill together got together recently to celebrate their 65th birthdays.

The friends are all celebrating the milestone this year within a few months of each other. They all grew up in Haverhill, went to school together, and have been good friends ever since.

Together with their wives, they celebrated by enjoying a weekend away together on the east coast.

Haverhill

LADY golfers teed off in the sunshine at a charity day and raised more than £750 towards a doctor's voluntary service trip to Africa.

Dr Andrew Cornish will retire from the Christmas Matings and Clements surgery in Haverhill after 30 years in September. From October, he will spend a year working for the Voluntary Service Overseas organisation at a clinic in Africa (see page 11).

The ladies of Haverhill Golf Club organised a charity day to boost his funds for the trip and 27 took part on a hot and sunny day. The competition was a Texas Scramble and was fun rather than serious, with teams of three competing for the trophy donated by the NFU Tenterden, Kent.

A delicious lunch was enjoyed after the events of the morning, where the ladies were treated to a glass of wine donated by Dr Cornish as a thank-you for their support. A tiny trophy was won by Pauline Calmet, Eileen Kiddy, and Jane Herrington, pictured right.

Dr Cornish's wife Lindsey has organised an "Andrew Goes to Africa Ball" in Great Thurlow on Friday, July 13. Tickets are still available at £47.50 and raffle prizes would also be appreciated. For more information e-mail lindseyposhrocks@hotmail.com or to donate visit www.justgiving.com/Lindsey-Cornish.

Fundraisers put in the miles to help pre-school

PARENTS put their best foot forward to help raise cash for their children's pre-school group.

Thurlow Pre-School staff and parents completed a 12-mile sponsored walk to raise money for the group. They started at 9am at the headquarters in the grounds of Thurlow Primary School Pre-School and finished back there at 3.15pm.

In six hours they walked through Great Wrating, Kedington, Sturmer, Haverhill and Withersfield. They thanked everyone who kindly donated money into the buckets and for the kind words of support they offered whilst they were on route.

Organiser Helen Frost said: "It was a very worthwhile day that was enjoyed by all who took part."

Spaces are available at the pre-school now, and anyone interested should contact Helen on (01440) 783 688.

Judge hits out over stalking case delay

A JUDGE has slammed the Crown Prosecution Service for its handling of a case involving the alleged stalking of 13-year-old girl.

Nigel Proctor, 43, of Linfield Court, Hertford, denies a charge of harassment by following and staring at the girl on numerous occasions in Haverhill between March 31 and September 26 last year.

He appeared at Bury St Edmunds Magistrates' Court on May 29, when a trial date was set for August 2 at Ipswich Magistrates' Court.

A trial due to take place on May 28 had to be cancelled because Proctor's solicitor had still not received statements and DVD evidence from the prosecution in relation to the case.

District Judge Celia Dawson said she was 'extremely concerned' by the delay and ordered defence solicitor Tom Harrison to prepare a schedule of costs for wasted court time.

The judge said: "I am concerned that the defendant and the witnesses have been waiting for the trial to take place and have had this hanging over them for all this time. The case has been handled inefficiently and the problems that have arisen are to be laid firmly at the door of the CPS.

"However, I am satisfied that the defendant can still receive a fair trial. If my direction that this evidence should be provided is not complied with, I expect the defence to come directly to me."

Mr Harrison said: "The file presented by the police was a shambles. Letters from our firm and the previous solicitors asking for full disclosure so that we could prepare the defence case were simply ignored. We have now got one statement in handwritten form, which is illegible."

Prosecutor Ian Devine gave his personal assurance that police would be asked to provide tapes of ID parades and other evidence before the trial.

He said: "There is no reasonable explanation I can give for the failings from January to today."

Man, 48, jailed for abuse of teen girl

A SECURITY guard who sexually abused a young girl has been jailed for three years.

Mark Stringer, 48, had denied four offences but was convicted by a jury at Ipswich Crown Court last month.

Last Thursday, Stringer returned to court to be sentenced and was told by Judge John Devaux: "I have no doubt that the offending was sexually motivated."

Stringer was found guilty of four offences of sexual assault, but the jury were unable to reach a verdict on an allegation of rape against the same girl. Prosecutor Richard Potts said that a retrial was not being sought on the rape charge.

Judge Devaux told Stringer that his offending had been aggravated by taking place on repeated occasions, the 33-year age gap between himself and the victim and what amounted to a breach of trust.

Stringer was ordered to sign the sexual offences register and banned from working with any child under the age of 16, both for an indefinite period.

During his trial, the jury heard allegations that Stringer, pictured above, had repeatedly subjected the girl to a series of sexual assaults before she was 13.

Giving evidence via a TV link into the courtroom the girl, from a village near Haverhill, who cannot be named for legal reasons, claimed that Stringer had put his hand inside her top and down her trousers on repeated occasions.

The girl had initially revealed to a friend on Facebook what she said happened and later told her mother who alerted police. While Stringer faced four charges of sexual assault they related to a greater number of alleged incidents, the court heard.

Stringer, of Lower Crescent, Barham, who had no previous convictions, had worked at Job Centres in Suffolk and Essex, had pleaded not guilty to all five offences.

He denied ever deliberately or accidentally touching the girl in a sexual way.

Defending, Lindsay Cox said: "This is a man who has quite an impressive work history. He served in the navy for seven years and then subsequently he obtained good work. He was working diligently throughout his adult life."

Bar Vu can stay open until 3am

A NIGHTCLUB has been granted consent by a licensing committee to stay open until 3am.

Bar Vu in Jubilee Walk, Haverhill, was granted consent by St Edmundsbury Borough Council's licensing sub-committee, despite concerns raised by the council's environmental health department that it could cause noise disturbance.

The application was approved subject to a condition that there should be no admission to the premises after 2am on Saturdays and Sundays.

A statement issued by the council said: "The sub-committee has considered the representations made by the responsible authority and the very detailed representation made by the applicant in response. The sub-committee considers that, subject to the addition of a further condition, the objective to prevent public nuisance will be met by the applicant."

At present the club has a licence to serve drinks until 2am and stay open until 2.30am. In future it will be able to serve drinks until 2.30am and remain open until 3am. The committee was told that applicant Harry Zachariou, pictured, wanted to extend his hours to match those of similar establishments in the area and would also ensure that there was no access to the outdoor smoking area after 2am.

In the report to the committee, the environmental health section said: "If the premises are allowed to remain open until 3am, there will still be extensive noise in Jubilee Walk and the High Street when 300-plus people leave the premises. It is also likely that people will remain in the vicinity of the premises chatting or waiting for taxi's after this time."

"Environmental Health and Housing Services are therefore still of the opinion that any further extension of the existing opening hours at Bar Vu is likely to cause additional lack of amenity to the residential occupiers in the vicinity of Jubilee Walk, particularly at Heron House, where there are 10 residential flats and St Esprit House, where there are seven residential flats, all of which are located on the High Street."

FOR a woman there's no doubt that (aside from the groom!) the dress is the biggest decision to be made before the wedding.

Seeing your reflection in the perfect dress is one of life's most special moments, and it pays to enlist the help of experts to get it right.

Amanda Julia Couture is a popular shop which has an enormous range of high quality dresses in different styles, sizes and to suit every budget.

Amanda herself started out as a wedding dress designer, which means she really knows what she's looking for when selecting stock.

The elegant shop has recently undergone an extension, meaning you can admire the downstairs showroom and eye-catching window display before heading upstairs to enjoy a selection of gowns and that all-important trying on session in the fitting rooms.

Amanda says: "The difference here is our fantastic range, but also the high quality of customer service. I get excited about working with every bride. We really go the extra mile for our customers, and we can make sure the whole wedding party is co-ordinated."

That's down to Amanda Julia Couture's selection of outfits for flower girls, bridesmaids and even men's suit hire from Cameron Ross, a company with more than 35 years' experience in creating classic formal wear, black tie

'Lucky' doctor heading out to Africa to give something back

Into Africa: Dr Andrew Cornish with his wife Lindsey.
Picture: Keith Jones 830711.

AFTER three decades as a GP, Dr Andrew Cornish is not hanging up his stethoscope – but taking it with him to treat patients in Africa for a year.

Dr Cornish, 58, is the managing partner at the Christmas Maltings and Clements surgery in Haverhill, where he has worked for the past 30 years. He retires at the end of September and will spend a year with Voluntary Service Overseas somewhere in Africa, although he has yet to learn exactly where.

Dr Cornish said: "I feel I have been very lucky in life – I have had a wonderful job, thoroughly enjoyed working in Haverhill with fantastic patients and I have two fit, healthy boys.

"I felt before going out to grass, I would like to do something completely different and give something back.

"It will be very different. Here people say they cannot get to the surgery, when in Africa women walk for two and a half days in labour to have a baby.

"I wanted to go with an established organisation and live and work with the population. It is very much about information and skill transfer, about giving people knowledge and skills so that there is a lasting impact. Simple things can make such a difference.

"People have been very generous and every single pound really can make difference and mean much more over there."

Lindsey Cornish said it was a huge shock when her husband of 36 years first announced his plans, but she was supporting his effort and was joining him in training to work at the clinic run by the charity.

She said: "It came as a complete surprise, but I am supporting him and organising his fundraising. I plan to travel backwards and forwards, but I am doing the training so that I can work as a volunteer at the clinic when I am there."

Most of the charity's locations in Africa offer very basic accommodation, many of them with no electricity or running water. Lindsey will travel back and forth to England to care for her mother.

She is helping him to raise his £5,000 target, partly to cover the cost of the trip and also to support the work in Africa.

A golf tournament was set to take place in Haverhill and tickets are still available for a ball in Great Thurlow on July 13.

Sponsors and raffle prizes are also needed for the event.

Donations can be made at the surgery or at www.justgiving.com/Lindsey-Cornish.

Saddle up for Big Bike Ride

A DEDICATED team of cyclists is going for gold in our sister paper the Cambridge News' Big Bike Ride in celebration of the 2012 Olympics - and riders will be using their very own app to keep track of their progress.

Team ViewRanger will be joining hundreds of people across the region on Sunday, July 8, to take part in the bike ride which will raise money for three local charities.

As well as tackling the 201.2km gold route they will also be creating an interactive map of the event that can be downloaded on a phone or viewed on our website. Families can also tackle a 20.12km route around Cambridge's sights.

Daniel Stewardson, digital marketing executive for Cambridge-based firm ViewRanger, said: "When we read about the Big Bike Ride we were really keen to get involved.

"We have entered a team to do the gold route, but we are also helping by making the route downloadable to a mobile phone through our ViewRanger app, so it is easy to refer to when cycling.

"What I didn't quite appreciate is that many of my workmates are serious outdoors types and cycling is their passion, so I'm going to have to get really fit to keep up with them."

Daniel is hoping that participants will also use the "Buddy Beacon" feature of the ViewRanger app.

When activated this will show where riders are on the interactive map, allowing supporters to track the whereabouts of friends and family who are taking part as they cheer them on.

Daniel said: "If you are doing the ride and activate the Buddy Beacon it is possible for others to see your progress and know where on the route to support you and it should improve the event for spectators."

The ViewRanger app is free to download for users of Apple, Android or Symbian smartphones.

The Cambridge News has teamed up with Cambridgeshire County Council to organise the event, which will raise money for Arthur Rank Hospice, East Anglia's Children's Hospices and Press Relief, our community fund. There are places available for both routes. To register, visit www.cambridge-news.co.uk/The-Big-Bike-Ride or fill in and return the form on this page.

Haverhill chef Hannah Jones shares recipes and highlights the very best of local produce. Hannah, who lives in Eastern Avenue with partner Matthew and young children Georgia and Jamie, is a former West Suffolk College student and chef at The Plough in Hordon and The Swan in Lavenham. She runs her own business making bespoke cakes and pastries, www.hannahsbuns.co.uk.

LAST week I made these amazing new cakes for The Garden Room Beauty Salon in Ridgewell.

Owner Lyndsey McCormack wanted to have some of these wonderful whoopie pies for her clients to celebrate the Queen's Jubilee. Lyndsey has the most wonderful little beauty salon I have ever been to. She has been working in the beauty industry for over 10 years and has recently set up her own business.

Lyndsey offers many treatments including waxing, massage and bio sculpture gel nails at very reasonable prices. Please contact her on 07981490754 for any enquires or to book an appointment.

So moving on to the whoopie pies: they were vanilla sponge with vanilla butter cream, the easiest way to introduce you to these delicious cakes. There are so many flavours you can incorporate. I have had a lot of fun coming up with some new combinations; for example, chocolate and peanut butter and raspberry and marshmallow fluff work well together. I have included a recipe for the vanilla whoopie pies for you to have a go - good luck and happy baking.

Ingredients

115g soft unsalted butter
 200g caster sugar
 1 large egg
 1 half tsp vanilla extract
 225ml buttermilk
 1 tsp bicarbonate of soda
 Half tsp baking powder
 275g plain flour
 200g unsalted butter
 400g sifted icing sugar
 1 tbsp vanilla extract

Instructions

- Preheat the oven to 180C and grease a large baking tray with butter and flour.
- Sift together the flour, baking powder and bicarbonate of soda and set aside.
- In a separate bowl, cream the butter and sugar together using an electric whisk until light and fluffy.
- Add the egg and vanilla and mix well until combined.
- Fold in half the flour and mix, and then add half the buttermilk and mix.
- Repeat with remaining ingredients.
- Use a piping bag to pipe little round moulds about 3cm round onto the baking trays (make sure you space them out as they do spread when baking).
- Bake for around 10 to 12 minutes.
- Allow to cool for 5 minutes on the Delicious: Lyndsey McCormack with the Jubilee whoopie pies.

tray then place on a cooling rack.

- To make your butter cream beat the butter with an electric whisk.
- Slowly add your sifted icing sugar and vanilla (you can add a little milk if the butter cream is too hard).
- Then you pipe on one side of the whoopie pie and sandwich with another.

There are so many designs you can do on the whoopie pies - you can leave them plain, pipe butter cream on top or cover them with rolled fondant. Look me up on Facebook for some ideas.

Fall changed my life: Simon Crampin is now a gym instructor.

'Blow to head to rethink my

BY LOUISE MARTIN

Email: weeklies@cambridge-news.co.uk

IN July 2006, Simon Crampin and his family were enjoying a happy family holiday in Cyprus.

An MoD employee, Simon had a deep affection for the country where he had been posted during his career, and was happy to be returning to the sunny island with his wife Karen and daughters Stephanie and Elizabeth. But just a few days before the family were due to return home, Simon caught a severe strain of food poisoning and fainted, collapsing heavily on to a concrete floor with his head taking the brunt of the fall.

"I was in a room by myself when it happened," recalls the 53-year-old. "Fortunately my wife heard the thud and came and sorted me out, but I was probably unconscious for several minutes."

When Simon came round he felt dizzy and had a severe headache, but at the time the dad from Brampton remembers being more concerned about his stomach bug.

"You just don't think you've done any real damage," he says. "I obviously didn't feel in the best of conditions anyway because of the bug but, over the next few days, I also had this huge lump and graze on my head from falling."

By the time Simon arrived home he was over the worst of the food poisoning and, despite still suffering from headaches which were becoming more acute, he returned to his busy corporate communications role with the MoD.

Concerned by the severity of the headaches, Simon saw his GP who, after a couple of visits, prescribed a strong painkiller and told him to take a few days off work to see if there was any improvement.

"I felt a bit bad about doing that because I'd just had two weeks off and returned with this tale about falling on my head, which caused great amusement – as it would – but it was just one of those bizarre things which you always think happens to someone else," says Simon. By the end of August, Simon had taken a couple of weeks off work but was seeing no improvement to the pain in his head. In fact, the headaches were getting worse. "They were quite severe in the front and back of my head; even moving my head aggravated it," he remembers.

To make matters worse, the food poisoning he had picked up on holiday returned. "It was one of those things that unless you treat it with antibiotics, then the body kills it off a bit but the more resistant bacteria can come back and hit you again," he says.

The infection left Simon so weak that he fainted again, this time at home, hitting his head on the floor. "Fortunately I fell on the landing as opposed to down the stairs and I banged my head on a carpeted floor," remembers Simon.

A course of antibiotics treated the infection and, with doctors increasingly concerned, he underwent CAT and MRI scans at Hinchingsbrooke Hospital.

"As is often the case with falls like mine, the scans didn't show anything up, but it was reassuring to know there wasn't anything else there that could have been causing the headaches," he says.

Despite the clear scans, Simon was still suffering from the after-effects of the fall: battling fatigue, painful headaches and problems with memory retention. It was, he says, a miserable time:

"Through September and October I was pretty much housebound. I'd always been a keen runner, but I just wasn't doing anything. The medical advice I was getting was that, basically, after six months from a head injury 80 per cent of people are better, but there are still 10-20 per cent that aren't. I was optimistic that I would be one of the 80 per cent."

By the start of 2007, the headaches had subsided enough for Simon to go back to work for one day a week with the intention of building up his hours to full time, and eventually return to his previous position. But after 18 months back in the office, he was still struggling with memory loss, fatigue and lack of concentration and, with no obvious improvement, Simon agreed it was time to leave his job.

"Almost two years after the accident I left the MoD on medical grounds," says Simon. "It was an awfully unfortunate thing to happen and it certainly wasn't the way I envisaged leaving after 30 years, but there wasn't really any way I was going to continue what I was doing. The consistent advice seemed to be that, after two years, any more significant improvement was unlikely to happen, so it was one of those things that became slightly inevitable."

After three decades spent doing a job he loved, Simon was then left with the daunting task of deciding what he was going to do next. A keen runner and with an interest in the fitness industry, Simon decided to find a course in this area and was put in touch with Lifetime, a UK-based training provider for a wide range of business sectors, including fitness and leisure. Simon was accepted on to a new apprenticeship scheme to become a qualified fitness instructor, which included a month of classroom-based learning followed by a three-month work placement.

As Simon is no longer able to drive long distances because of his injury, he completed the course at Lifetime's Watford site, close to his parents' home where he stayed during the course.

"There was some concern about how I would cope with the course as it was quite full on," says Simon. "Four weeks in the classroom sounds quite cosy, but it was intensive and we had things to do in the evenings too. I was whacked by the end of it but, with the help of the Lifetime tutors, I managed to get through it."

In fact Simon enjoyed the course so much that following his work placement at Impressions Gyms, where he now works as a regular cover instructor, he also completed an additional qualification with Lifetime to enable him to work as a personal trainer.

Simon now works an average of two days a week for Impressions, but still struggles with the symptoms of his condition, sometimes referred to as Post Head Injury Syndrome.

"I'd like to do a bit more but I know I can't do full time," he says. "Even now, if I do four days in a week for two or three weeks, I get progressively more fatigued by the end of it. I've agreed to work virtually all this month and I know it will be difficult, but you live with it."

Simon's progress hasn't gone unnoticed by both Lifetime and Impressions. Last year he was announced as a finalist for the Lifetime Learner Achievement Awards, making it to the final 20 out of 200 entries.

Recently he has been selected by Technogym to attend the gyms at the Olympic Village during this year's Games, after receiving a One Leisure Impressions 'Stars' award in 2011, which is awarded for good service. Simon will be brushing shoulders with world-class athletes as he mans the equipment, a prospect he is very much looking forward to.

"What a thing to be involved in," he says. "It's going to be a great place to be."

Despite managing the side effects of his injury, Simon is realistic about how much more he can improve.

"Do I expect to return to how I was? No, sadly. It would be nice but, looking at how things are, I don't expect to be doing what I was doing before. But you adjust your lifestyle to suit. Because it's been a number of years now, this is probably where I'm going to be."

Youngsters land top Rotary honours

PUPILS who have gone out of their way to help others were honoured at a Rotary Club's annual book awards.

Five pupils received their awards from Haverhill and District Rotary Club's vice-chairman Tony Bayley at an event at Haverhill Golf Club.

Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College pupil Alicja Sen, 18, was one of those who received the awards, having previously received one when she was 14. Teacher Krystal Vittles said: "When she came to this country from Poland she hardly spoke a word of English, but she immersed herself in the language and has been an outstanding student. She is quite a high achiever and hoping to go to university."

"She has also gone out of her way to help other Polish students who have language difficulties learning about English culture. Everything she has done has been so selfless and we are very proud of her."

The school's deputy principal Vanessa Blackwell praised pupil Anastasia Dawkins, 12, who recently had her long hair cut off to raise money for the Motor Neuron Society, as her grandfather suffers from the condition, and donated her hair to another charity which make wigs for children with cancer.

James Warne, 12, from Stour Valley Community School in Clare was praised for setting up projection equipment, helping younger students and completing the Sport Relief Mile on a unicycle.

James Mason from Samuel Ward Academy praised Bartie Shirm, 16, who plays saxophone, cello and piano, for performing himself and helping other students to perform. Charlotte Williams, 15, had helped new and vulnerable students to adjust at school and got glowing reports from her work experience at Addenbrooke's Hospital.

Circle means more than just token gesture

IF you hate gardening but love decorating, a group with a rapidly rising membership could be just the place to go.

So far, Suffolk Circle has 360 members across the west of Suffolk, including Haverhill, Newmarket and Mildenhall.

Ages range from 49-98 and an ambitious campaign is under way to double membership.

What makes the group different is the system it operates, with tokens exchanged for work done by other members, who in return receive tokens for their efforts.

Members buy tokens for £6 each, which can be used for half an hour of work or a social event. All helpers are CRB-checked.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Finbarr Carter, head of membership for Suffolk Circle, said: "Members choose how they want to shape their membership – some just use the social calendar to get out and about, some just get practical help whilst other pick and mix."

"Each month, members choose what to go to based on their own personal interests. But essentially people join because they want to connect with others."

"We offer an easy way to do that, have fun and make life easier."

The kind of jobs done for member so far have included gardening, DIY, cleaning, providing transport, writing Christmas cards, completing tax forms, dress alterations and moving furniture.

Using technology is another busy area and has included teaching an 84-year-old to shop online and write emails using her iPad, and showing a member how to use online communication tool Skype so she can talk to and see her daughter and grandchildren in Australia.

Recent events in the Haverhill area have included yoga, lunch at the White Horse at Withersfield, and aqua aerobics.

Future events are listed on www.suffolkcircle.org.uk or alternatively phone 0800 112 3446. Anyone interested in joining Suffolk Circle can try an event before they get involved.

When worlds collide

With her thought-provoking new drama, 27, playing in Cambridge, award-winning writer Abi Morgan takes time out of her hectic schedule to talk science and Sisters with Jennifer Shelton

SHE has been described to me, by several different people, as 'the busiest woman in the world', so despite several false-starts and a bit of last-minute rescheduling, I'm delighted to get Abi Morgan on the phone at all late one Friday afternoon.

The pen behind Shame, The Iron Lady and BBC drama The Hour – and that's just in the last year – Morgan is currently taking her latest play, 27, on tour after its successful run at the National Theatre of Scotland.

27 is based on the true story of a study of nuns, conducted with the hope of unlocking the mysteries of Alzheimer's. Set in a convent, it sees science clash with faith as one young Sister struggles with her conscience in order to do what's right.

When we talk, Morgan is on the way back from presenting the play to an audience of real-life nuns in Glasgow, and it seems to have gone down well.

"It was really moving and a real honour to show it to an audience that completely understands the issues within it," she says. "They really enjoyed it and said it was all very recognisable, and they loved the complexity. We had lunch with them and it was funny, there were so many echoes of the play. It was a very affirming experience."

The BAFTA Award-winning writer first had the idea for her play when she came across David Snowdon's book, Aging with Grace, which documented the scientist's Alzheimer's experiment.

"I heard him on the radio talking about it and thought, 'this is incredible', so I read the book, which came out about six years ago I think, and which follows his journey visiting convents across the American mid-west. So 27 is inspired by this, and takes the idea of a character coming to Scotland to set up the same study."

In a nutshell, Snowdon's project involved asking nuns to donate their brains after death to be examined in the name of Alzheimer's research: their unique, controlled living environment, involving constant routine and mental stimulation, making them a perfect society group to observe.

"It's also an exploration of faith and it made me think of the parallel journey of a nun committed to a religious life and a scientist committed to his work."

"I like the idea of religion and science coming together. That's what triggered the creation of our character, Dr Richard Garfield, and the friendship he forms with Ursula, who is about to be made Mother Superior and must decide whether or not to allow her 27 nuns to be part of the project."

This dilemma gives the play much of its drive, and I'm keen to find out what Morgan herself would do in her character's shoes.

"Ultimately I'm a great believer in the power of science: I carry an organ donor card, and I'd like to think that I'd be able to do that, yes. I understand, though, that it's very complex, the idea of becoming separated from your body after death."

Do you think faith and science can go hand in hand?

"Yes I do, I think science requires a degree of faith – it's about looking for answers and you don't always find them, so that demands a certain faith."

"There's an interesting relationship between a nun and her body," Morgan continues. "In the play, Dr Garfield says something based on an Alexander Pope quote, that: 'the study of man is man', and the nun replies, 'yes, but the study of a Sister is her God'. I find that interesting, and the question of whether there is a God, and whether religion is still relevant in today's secular world. Not a lot of people go to church any more, let alone believe. But I do think the two go hand in hand actually."

Having begun writing while at university, Morgan began tentatively writing for theatre after graduating, not daring to show her work to anyone. Her first play, Skinhead, was staged in 1998, in the same year that she earned her first TV credit for drama series, Peak Practice. She has since picked up an Olivier Award nomination, a BAFTA and this year The Iron Lady came away with two Oscars.

Yet despite her success, she remains humble.

"I don't really feel pride," she explains, "it's more that I feel lucky getting to work with so many amazing people. A lot of them are people I've worked with in the past as well."

Her back-catalogue is diverse: from politicians to sex-addicts, set in all manner of times and places.

"You become an expert for five minutes and end up knowing little bits about lots of different things. I love that: getting to become part of a completely different world," says Morgan. "But there are themes which do recur across my work, like power, loss of power, and memory and age."

Ava is the headliner

MOCK the Week star Ava Vidal headlines June's Custard Comedy bill at Comberton Leisure.

Ava has a clutch of TV appearances to her name, including the BBC's Michael McIntyre's Comedy Roadshow, Comedy Central's The World Stands Up, Edinburgh and Beyond and C4 reality show Kings of Comedy.

She has two children and left her job as a prison guard after four years to get into comedy.

Ava is supported by Jeremy O'Donnell, who mixes sharp one-liners with friendly storytelling. His cheeky smile and friendly nature have endeared him to audiences all over the UK and as far afield as Berlin, Bahrain, Paris and Zurich.

Also on the bill is Ben Davids. Since starting out in stand-up in 2007, Ben has gone on to establish himself as a solid and funny act with his neatly-crafted gags and one-liners. He regularly does opening sets for promoters all over the country, and was also selected to be a warm-up act at the Rock With Laughter show at the LG Arena where he performed in front of 20,000 people over two nights.

■ Ava Vidal at Comberton Leisure, Friday June 8 at 8.15. Over-18s only. Tickets £8 (£6 concessions) in advance or £10 (£8 on the door. Call (01223) 264444 or see www.wegotickets.com/event/158932.

FEEL THE HEAT: Hot Mikado brings the story forward several centuries. Picture: Tim Winn.

Some like it hotter

IT'S that classic story - boy meets girl, they fall in love. . . what could possibly go wrong? Well, when that boy happens to be engaged to someone else already, and her guardian has designs on her too, the answer is: everything!

This week at the ADC, get swept away by Hot Mikado, the updated, rock 'n' roll adaptation of Gilbert and Sullivan's oriental love story.

There's not a kimono to be seen as this reworking transports the story forward several centuries, bringing a thoroughly modern swing to this tale of romance, intrigue, flirting, death-threats, mock-executions, and a wedding - but between whom?

Performed by the Festival Players, who brought us last year's huge, full-on show The Producers, this swingin' new spectacle features lindy hop, gospel, jazz and plenty of cool cats in spats.

Alistair Horne, who plays, Ko-ko, says: "It's certainly the most colourful show I've ever been involved in and so full of energy. There's something for everyone, with songs in a wide range of styles - ballads, swing, and jazz, for starters! - and lots of comedy too!"

Director Kirsty Smith added: "With musical theatre productions increasingly demanding more vibrant and sophisticated movement, the Festival Players' shows have, in recent years, stepped up to the mark on this front too. I believe that recent productions (Chess 2010, The Producers 2011) and now Hot Mikado prove just what a versatile company this is."

■ Hot Mikado, ADC Theatre, until Saturday June 9. Tickets are from £10 (£8 concessions) and the show starts at 7.45pm. Contact (01223) 300085 / www.adctheatre.com.

news from

ALBERT Lee and Hogan's Heroes hit Haverhill tonight at 8pm.

Albert's impeccable country music and rock pedigree stretches back over more than 40 years. He has performed with many of the greats in country and rock, including Joe Cocker, Emmylou Harris, Eric Clapton and the Everly Brothers. Tickets are going fast; contact the box office for availability.

Showbooker bring a new adaptation of Jeremy Strong's children's story I'm Telling You They're Aliens! tomorrow. Rob is an eccentric and wildly imaginative boy, who worries about everything from being bitten by snakes to dinosaurs waiting around the corner. So when the Vorks move in across the road, he is convinced they are aliens. With the aid of his friend Marsha, he heroically sets out to expose those evil, invading extra-terrestrials for what they really are. The family fun starts at 2pm.

Join us for Euro 2012 football on the big screen for England's qualifying games against France on Monday June 11 at 5pm and Sweden on Friday June 15 at 5pm. Tickets are free for this family-friendly footie and the bar will be open for drinks and snacks.

Reg Smith (aka Marty Wilde) was a massive pop star in the 50s and 60s with a plethora of hits including Rubber Ball and Teenager In Love. Relive the memories of the golden age of pop with Marty on Thursday June 14. The hips start shaking at 8pm.

The big film

THE PACT
Certificate 15, 1h28m

ALL families have their secrets and the dysfunctional clan at the centre of Nicholas McCarthy's ghost story have an entire closet full of skeletons waiting to rattle their gnarled bones.

The film opens with Nicole (Agnes Bruckner) wandering around her deceased mother's creepy house in Los Angeles, a laptop computer in hand as she makes a video call to her daughter and younger sister Annie (Caity Lotz), who refuses to step inside the property.

The little girl signals the start of the nastiness to come, asking sweetly: "Mummy, who's that behind you?" Nicole spins around, alarmed. A nervous peek inside the closet that adjoins the lounge is the last we see of her.

Soon after, biker chick Annie enters the fray, rightly concerned about the lack of contact with her sister. Strange noises, flickering lights and an unexplained break-in lead to the realisation that something is terribly wrong in the house.

Annie asks local police detective Creek (Casper Van Dien) to investigate. Through his lackadaisical methods, he reveals a secret room and sparks Annie's horrific memories of her childhood that have kept her far from the city.

The Pact is expanded from the writer-director's 11-minute short film of the same name but sadly he runs out of ideas and dramatic momentum well before the bells have chimed on the first hour.

It relies on some stratospheric suspensions of disbelief. Annie's determination to stay inside a home that has clearly been the source of so much pain is hard to swallow when an unseen force starts smashing family photographs and dropping items in the kitchen.

But when that same force starts flinging the stricken heroine around rooms like a rag doll, any sane individual would leap on to that motorcycle, head for the hills and never return.

Alas, McCarthy's flimsy script has no room for common sense and so Annie prevails in order to set up an unlikely resolution involving an old relative (Mark Steger) from the poisonous family tree.

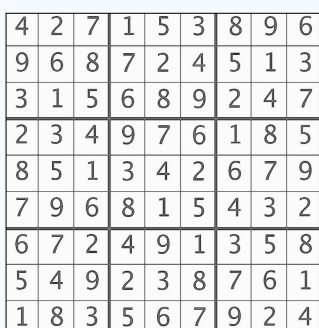

The jolts are sporadically effective but we're savvy enough to second guess where McCarthy will take us next and the nasty surprises that could be lurking around the next poorly lit corridor.

Production design is dark and gloomy, relying on what we can't see to whir our imaginations into overdrive and conjure up scares that are disappointingly lacking in the script.

Something's in the air...

MOST of us can identify familiar scents in the garden; newly-mown grass, fragrant roses and lavender spring to mind.

In fact, women have a significantly better sense of smell than men, according to a survey by Gardeners' World magazine.

The survey of 2,000 people found that women were able to recognise 14 out of 15 garden scents better than men – including rose, lilac, freshly cut grass and compost.

Freeseas came out tops as our favourite scent, followed by strawberries and sweet peas. Creosote was the only smell men recognised as much as women.

So it seems timely to create a scented garden to educate not only our men but to provide endless days and nights of aromatic summer pleasure outdoors.

Indeed many plants grown for their scent come into their own at dusk, including night-scented stocks, honeysuckle, jasmine and nicotiana. Plant them close to where you will be sitting in the evening and you won't miss their delicious scent.

Others, such as lavender, thyme and rosemary, release their scent when you make contact with them, so are ideal for edging paths, so that visitors can appreciate their heady aroma when they brush past them.

Sheltered spots devoid of wind, which can effectively blow the scent away, will provide an area of intense fragrance. If you have a bench in a sheltered spot, try growing roses up around it so you can catch that intensity when you sit.

It is possible to combine natural fragrances for the best results and the magazine has created a scent wheel, similar to a colour wheel, to match scented plants to bring out the best in each other.

Sweet scents which do well together include cottage garden favourites such as sweet pea, lilac, honeysuckle and rose, while a combination of citrus scents including lemon verbena, monarda and lime also work well together.

If you like woody notes with sweet scents, go for lavender, sage and thyme, while more spicy notes are gained from dianthus, azalea and bay.

If you're after scent when you open your patio doors, keep your containers and hanging baskets close by with your fragrant favourites.

I have a basket outside my patio door in the summer filled with the petunia Surfinia Blue Vein, whose flowers have a deep blue throat which pales into the white outer petal. The smell of this type is fantastic – almost like a lily fragrance.

Indeed, no scented garden would be complete without some sort of lily and one of the easiest to grow is the regal lily, Lilium regale. One bulb quickly builds up into a clump on most soils, producing a profusion of white, trumpet-shaped blooms with yellow throats and purple pink outsides, whose strong heady perfume is at its best on summer evenings.

"Sniff a lily and you'll feel a sense of wellbeing that Chanel can never match," Alan Titchmarsh comments. They're perfect planted with roses, ornamental grasses and euphorbia.

If you have an archway or pergola near your patio, you can choose from a wide variety of scented climbers including scented honeysuckles, wisterias, roses and jasmine.

Trachelospermum jasminoides is a fantastic slow-growing climber which will reach around 10m (32ft) in height if placed in a sheltered position against a warm wall. It produces small white flowers against dark green oval-shaped leaves and its fragrance is fantastic. But you need to protect it against wind and frost in severe winters.

It is not only flowers which produce wonderful scents during summer – rub some leaves of certain plants and you will be pleasantly surprised. The lemon-scented pelargonium (P. crispum 'Variegatum'), for instance, has cream-edged leaves which, if rubbed, emit a delicious lemon perfume. It produces pale mauve flowers throughout summer.

With a little planning, you could soon have a garden full of fragrance which will last all summer.

A mortgage consultant is a wise choice

THE average home owner is currently projected to move house only once every 25 years, as opposed to once in every 12 years, as it was before the economic downturn.

However, Abbotts in Haverhill is seeing strong appetite among local homebuyers looking for competitively priced mortgage products to help them get on or move up the property ladder.

Commenting on the local mortgage market, Philip Macdonald, managing director at Abbotts, said: "Although the successful Stamp Duty holiday for properties under £250,000 came to an end in March, here in East Anglia we have seen consistent demand. Unfortunately, deposit affordability and mortgage availability remain the main barriers – particularly for first-time buyers."

Abbotts has access to a range of exclusive mortgages through Countrywide Mortgage Services, the UK's largest mortgage broker, which has consultants operating through the Abbotts network.

Countrywide Mortgage Services offers competitively priced mortgage deals to help buyers struggling to raise a deposit on fixed, variable, tracker and capped mortgages to discount mortgages and offset mortgages.

Philip adds: "Working with a mortgage consultant can help you find the best deal for your circumstances and can save you money both in the short and long term."

Countrywide Mortgage Services advises buyers to consider the following factors in advance of choosing their mortgage product.

Here are some questions to ask about your mortgage:

- Does it have early repayment charges?
- Is it portable?
- Are repayment holidays included?
- Does it allow you to make under/over payments?
- Are booking or arrangement fees included?

Nigel Stockton, financial services director at Countrywide, which has 670 mortgage consultants throughout the UK, comments:

"A home is one of the biggest purchases of your life. It is important to take the time to speak with an experienced mortgage consultant, who will explain the mortgage products that are available and the differences in mortgage rates, incentives, terms and types.

"In the past few weeks, we have seen four fixed rate 90 per cent LTV products remain in the top 10 of our most popular mortgage products. We work closely with some of the UK's largest lenders to ensure that the thousands of customers we serve on a daily basis have access to competitively priced products, some of which are exclusive to us.

"One of our current exclusive products includes a three-year fixed rate 90 per cent LTV deal with £500 cash back and options for payment holidays as well as the entitlement to make overpayments of up to 10 per cent in any given year."

To learn more about Countrywide's mortgage products and services, contact your local Abbotts office, call 0800 9887925 or visit www.countrywidemortgages.co.uk.

Skoda Citigo is on sale

ONE of the most important new models in the history of Skoda is now officially on sale.

The all-new Citigo marks the start of a new era in the company's 117-year history. As the sixth model in the multi award-winning line-up, and Skoda's first ever city car, it expands the brand's value-for-money appeal to a new type of customer.

With a classically simple yet charismatic design and outstanding a r o u n d - t o w n manoeuvrability, the Citigo sets new standards – comfort, convenience, environmental considerations and technical sophistication.

The brand's debut in the fast-expanding city car segment, it's also the first new model to wear Skoda's revised 'winged arrow' corporate badge. It's a fact that perfectly illustrates the Citigo's huge significance for the company.

The Citigo has a spacious and bright cabin which can easily accommodate four adults, along with the largest boot in its class and a five-star Euro NCAP safety rating.

The 1.0-litre three-cylinder petrol engine comes with a power output of either 60 or 75PS, plus the option of GreenTech fuel-saving technologies including stop/start and brake energy recuperation. A newly developed five-speed manual transmission is standard, though an automatic gearbox is available on selected models. It means the Citigo has official combined fuel economy as high as 68.9mpg and CO2 emissions as low as 96g/km.

Skoda's recognised high specification trim levels – S, SE and Elegance – are on offer, and can be personalised with a range of desirable factory and dealer-fit options. One highlight is the Personal Infotainment Device (PID), a dashboard-mounted touch-screen technology providing Bluetooth, sat-nav, and trip data.

Prices for the 14-car Citigo line-up begin at just £7,630 for the entry level three-door model, with five-door cars another £350.

CASTLE MANOR ACADEMY

A member of the Castle Partnership of Schools
'Committed to All Through Learning'
Principal: Ms M Vigar BEd (Hons) NPQH

Your chance to be part of something 'Outstanding'

Faculty of Science, Technology, Engineering and Maths
Childcare and Health and Social Care Teacher MPS
Required for September 2012

The Castle Partnership of schools is committed to All Through Education, firmly believing that a love of learning should be nurtured from a very young age and that traditional phases of education should be integrated to secure continuity, progression and high standards.

Castle Manor Academy was described by OFSTED in December 2010 as an 'Outstanding School'. We were in the top 10% of schools nationally for student progress (VA) in 2011 and have demonstrated year on year rapid improvement in student outcomes over the last 6 years.

We require an enthusiastic and dynamic teacher to join our successful Faculty to teach Childcare and Health and Social Care to students at Key Stage 4 and potentially KS5.

Childcare and Health and Social Care are already offered at KS4 and have grown in popularity in recent years with both courses being oversubscribed this year. We have introduced a brand new curriculum, developing a range of academic, vocational and community learning opportunities and we envisage both subjects to comprise a significant and important part of our curriculum offer at both KS4 and KS5. As such, we want to appoint a forward looking teacher who can contribute to the growth of these already successful curriculum areas.

The post will provide professional development opportunities for either a newly qualified or experienced teacher. A part time contract may be negotiated for a suitable candidate.

As an Investor in People employer, you would be part of a strong, professional and welcoming staff team. We invite you to come and take a look around our College at any time.

The school is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and young people and successful applicants will be expected to undertake a criminal record check via the criminal records bureau.

Closing date for applications: 19th June 2012
Interviews: Week commencing 25th June 2012

For an application pack please see the vacancies page on our website. For further information, please contact Ms Rebecca Abbott, Principal's PA; 01440 705501 ext 210.

Admissions Secretary (Maternity Leave)

£23,458
Selwyn College Cambridge

Selwyn College wishes to appoint an experienced full-time Administrator to provide Maternity Leave cover for our Admissions Secretary.

Dealing with undergraduate admission enquiries, assisting with Open Days, coordinating interviews and working with the Admissions Tutors and other Fellows on admissions matters, the successful candidate will possess excellent organisational and communication skills. He/she will be educated to A-Level standard or equivalent (including in English and Mathematics), and must be able to demonstrate close attention to detail and a high level of accuracy. Previous administrative experience in the University or a College would be an advantage.

Benefits include 33 days' holiday and free lunches. On-site parking is available. Further information and an application form can be found on our College website <http://www.sel.cam.ac.uk/vacancies> Alternatively contact the HR Officer on Tel: (01223) 769271, or e-mail: recruitment@sel.cam.ac.uk

The closing date for receipt of applications is 30 June 2012. Interviews will be held on 13 July 2012. It is hoped that the successful candidate will be able to take up this post on 1 October 2012.

Selwyn College is an equal opportunity employer.

Trophies: Haverhill Rovers girls held their presentation night at the club's ground on Friday. The under-12 and under-13 players are pictured with their awards. The club, who play in the S-Tech League, are looking for new players for next season at under-10, under-13, under-14 and under-17 age groups. For more information, contact Steve Hull on 07759 016470. >> Golf: Haverhill GC round-up

Fish nets win at fundraiser

ON Sunday the Help for Heroes fundraising event was held, a stableford competition open to all sections of Haverhill's golf membership.

The qualifier was played in damp and difficult conditions, with just a few players managing to break under par.

The overall winner was Andy Fish with 39 points.

In second place was Michael Bennett with 38 and third place went to Gerry Scott on countback with 37.

The top score from the Ladies' Section was Heather Eldred with 32, on countback from Gillian Barke, who also scored 32. Rebecca Hazel was third with 31.

The top 10 men's scores and top five ladies' scores will go forward to this year's Volvo National Golf Club Challenge, where the top three clubs in the country are invited to play in a final at Turnberry.

There was a good turnout over the Diamond Jubilee weekend, despite the typically British weather.

A total of £390 was raised on the day and club captain Steve Ward and lady captain Doreen Darbey thanked everyone for their support.

Pat Kennedy just had the edge in Haverhill ladies' medal competition on Saturday.

She won with a nett score of 68, trimming her 17 handicap by a shot in the process.

In second place was Karen Wilby (14 handicap) with 69, and Anna Fairhead (19 handicap) was third with 73.

Haverhill Seniors have had mixed results in their friendly matches during last month.

On May 11, they lost 5-3 at home to Gosfield.

They travelled to Bury St Edmunds on May 14, where they lost 6-2.

The following day they managed to turn the tables with a 5-3 away against Heydon Grange.

They recorded another win on May 18, beating The Suffolk 5-3 at home.

Then on May 25, they lost 6-2 at home to Bourn.

>> Table tennis

It's sibling rivalry as Sam and Alex shine at county championships

TWINS Alex and Sam Horscroft both put in a good performance at the Suffolk Table Tennis Championships held at Stowupland High School. Alex and Sam (right), from Haverhill, met each other in the semi-finals of the open singles, with Sam winning 3-0. Sam lost out in a close final against England under-15s player Lucy Zhu.

Alex went on to win the mixed doubles with Oliver Scase. Sam was the runner-up in the under-18s competition, losing out No 1 ranked county player Jack Anthony.

The brothers went on to meet each other in the under-15 singles final, with Alex getting some revenge by coming out the winner.

CRICKET fan Andrew Argent savoured the chance to play on the biggest stage during England's Test match with the West Indies at Trent Bridge.

Argent, from Castle Camps, won the opportunity to test his skills in a one-off Last Man Stands Super Over during a break in the game at Nottingham.

Former England Test star Mark Butcher was on hand to pass on some tips to Argent, who faced a five-ball over on the historic ground in front of thousands of supporters.

The new Last Man Stands format allows matches to be played in just two hours, with teams of eight having 20 five-ball overs per side.

Players can also score 12 runs off the last ball of each over if they hit a six, while the final batsman can continue to play on their own after they have lost their partner.

Argent scored five off his Super Over and enjoyed the experience.

He said: "I was a bit nervous going out to bat as it's not every day you get to play at Trent Bridge."

"It was a great experience though, and I had a great day."

Butcher said: "I thought Andrew did well considering it was in front of thousands of people at Trent Bridge."

"It was a lot of pressure as it was just one over, so he had to get to grips with it straight away."

"It's great that Andrew can say that he's now played at a Test match."

HAVERHILL edged to a nail-biting three-run victory over Maldon in the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One

After an indifferent start to the innings, Satyarjit Sabthai (30) and Anthony Phillips (62) ensured Haverhill set a reasonable total of 155 for 9.

Maldon made a promising start in reply but Simon Youngs (4 for 18) took important wickets at vital times.

Just as victory appeared to be in sight for Maldon, the home side clinched the final wicket with 152 on the scoreboard.

The result sees Haverhill remain in second place. They are away to third-bottom Lakenheath on Saturday.

■ Haverhill II remain top of Division Six after a four-wicket win away to Mildenhall IV.

Mildenhall posted 190 for 5, with Haverhill reaching the target for the loss of six wickets.

The seconds are at home to Braintree II on Saturday.

■ Andy Brightmore's half-century helped guide Weston Colville to a 159-run win over Babraham in Tucker Gardner Cambs & Hunts Premier League, Division Two.

Colville made a steady start but it was Brightmore, batting at No 3, who really set them on their way.

His knock of 51 was added to by Adam Taylor (31), Trevor Westley (36 not out) and skipper Adie Westley (23 not out) as the visitors posted 266 for 6.

Trevor Westley then took five wickets for just 13 runs as Babraham were all out for 107.

■ Horseheath earned an eight-run win in a tight contest at home to Thriplow in Mr Cricket CCA Senior League, Division One.

Horseheath captain Dan Goldsmith top-scored with 56 as the hosts were all out for 151.

Robbie Ketteridge took 3 for 30 as Thriplow were then sent packing for 143.

Quinney fails to push on after good first day at the Lagonda Trophy HAVERHILL'S Dave Quinney enjoyed an excellent first day at the prestigious Lagonda Trophy competition at Gog Magog Golf Club, but he could not maintain his charge on the second day.

Quinney, representing Gog Magog, shot two consistent rounds on the first day last Wednesday to put himself in the hunt for the trophy.

He recorded an impressive 67 in the morning and followed it up with an even par 70 in the afternoon for three-under-par 137, four shots off the lead.

But rounds of 76 and 81 the next day saw him finish outside the top 10 on 294.

The event was won by Michael Saunders, from Dartford Golf Club, with a five-under-par total of 275.

The plaudits for the best score of the tournament went to Hemsted Forest's Edward Richardson, who recorded five-under-par 65 in his third round.

Leaderboard: 275 – M Saunders (69, 67, 69, 70); 276 – D Timms (69, 66, 71, 70); 277 – E Richardson (70, 73, 65, 69); G Payne (66, 72, 70, 69); J Mullen (68, 71, 67, 71); 281 – D Wasteneay (68, 68, 66, 68); O Cousins (72, 70, 69, 70); T Wilde (70, 70, 69, 72).
